

I hope to see the usage process of this device in your next design documentation, such as how it is assembled to the rear part of the car, the fixation method, how to dismantle it when carrying this cart full of vegetables and fruits into the home or basement, also the process of moving it. I hope you can present it in the form of a comic or any other format that is convenient for you.

We noticed in your video that the spices were scattered, some on the table and some in the upper cabinets. We would like to know your thoughts on the most suitable location for placing this storage device. During cooking, we often see a lot of spare ingredients on the table, and there may not be much space to put another large item; otherwise, it might be inconvenient to operate. If placed in the cabinet, we would consider adding a retractable structure for easy access. So, the question is about the placement location.

The fixed methods for bottled and bagged spices have been determined: bottled spices are secured on the shelf to prevent spills, and bagged spices are fixed with a row of clips. Next, we will determine the way to open and retrieve the spices because we are still exploring suitable folding and retractable structures. I believe we will provide you with a clear usage method in the next two days.
